

Coming Soon for Students

Next Gen Character Exploration

Powered by PrinciplesYou

Scoir is partnering with PrinciplesYou to bring student assessments into the 21st century! PrinciplesYou is unique because its framework is designed to tap into character traits and fit, not interests or aptitudes.

Created by entrepreneur Ray Dalio and by world-renowned psychometricians Dr. Adam Grant, Dr. Brian Little, and Dr. John Golden, PrinciplesYou provides best-in-class assessment frameworks and leading personality science inspired by the modern workforce that students will ultimately need to navigate.

Measures character traits across three dimensions: Cognitive, Interpersonal, and Motivational.

Identifies the Archetypes students are most like, including tendencies, talents, and opportunities for growth.

Generates comprehensive insights through an in-depth report to help students better understand how they interact and apply themselves with others (e.g., parents, counselors, peers).

Shows how these insights can translate to work and life.

Provides the ability to share the insights and reports with counselors to help better guide students through the college search and discovery process.

Enables counselors to compare traits side-by-side for more effective engagement with students.

Tailors insights on how students' results apply to real-life situations, allowing students to see their tendencies in action.

Can be completed within one class period.